Bringing Ohio's Advisors Together

Ohio Academic Advising Association
www.academicadvising.org

Who are we?

The Ohio Academic Advising Association (OHAAA) is a state allied organization of the National Academic Advising Association (NACADA). OHAAA is the representative and advocate of academic advisors in institutions of higher education and is a forum for discussion, debate, and the exchange of information and ideas.

What does OHAAA do?

- Works to raise the profile of academic advising within the academic community and to support the development and growth of academic advising in higher education in Ohio.
- Serves a constituency that includes academic advisors, counselors, faculty, administrators, and others in academic and student affairs concerned with the intellectual and personal growth and career development needs of students.

What are OHAAA's Goals?

- Providing low cost, quality, professional development opportunities
- Networking with other professional organizations that serve college students
- Surveying the OHAAA members to determine what topics to address at seminars and conferences
- Bringing advisors together to network with each other
- Representing the views of advisors to institutions of higher education and the state government
- Establish the goals and programs of and affiliate with the National Academic Advising Association (NACADA).
