Who are we?

The Ohio Academic Advising Association (OHAAA) is a state allied organization of the National Academic Advising Association (NACADA). OHAAA was formed in June of 1996. The intent was to form a state advising association that could provide advisors the capability of networking on a local level as well as offering a annual drive-in conference. The first conference was held in June 1997.

What does OHAAA do?

The purpose of the Ohio Academic Advising Association is to raise the profile of academic advising within the academic community and to support the development and growth of academic advising in higher education in Ohio. OHAAA serves a constituency that includes academic advisors, counselors, faculty, administrators, and others in academic and student affairs concerned with the intellectual and personal growth and career development needs of students. OHAAA is the representative and advocate of academic advisors in institutions of higher education and is a forum for discussion, debate, and the exchange of information and ideas.

What are OHAAA's Goals?

- Provide quality academic advisement services for students.
- Establish a communication network among institutions of higher education.
- Support and provide professional development opportunities for those involved in academic advisement.
- Promote professional standards for academic advising.
- Establish a liaison to governing boards of higher education in Ohio.
- Establish the goals and programs of and affiliate with the National Academic Advising Association (NACADA).
